

Snowflakes & Happy Hearts

DECORATING OUR BRICK BUNGALOW WITH A VALENTINE'S DAY MOTIF

HOUSE & ENTRYWAY (Below) Staked metal crimson hearts adorn the snowy garden. A fourth hangs from the porch's ceiling. "Welcome" says the plaque on the oak storm door that's original to the house.

THE LIVING/DINING ROOM SUITE The dining room table is dressed for Valentine's Day with frosted winter birds holding court amid gold beaded lamps and red heart-based champagne flutes. Candles add soft light to the dining room, corner bar and cozy living room.

GOLF-THEMED DEN/TV ROOM The den/TV room is decorated with golf memorabilia, Doug's trophies and tournament photos. This is the main floor "man room."

MASTER BEDROOM/SITTING ROOM We opened up the wall between these two rooms and connected them with windowed French doors. The suite overlooks the pretty back yard.

PITTYPAT GALLERY & STUDIO This lower level space houses my gallery (closed for the season) and all my research books and art supplies - everything I need in one spot for creating!

THE GUEST SUITE This hospitable, roomy suite houses a bedroom, large bathroom and a family room (pictured here) - perfect for visiting guests who want to stay awhile. It has an egress window that keeps it light and bright, even though it's in the lower level.

KITCHEN/BREAKFAST NOOK/POWDER ROOM We elected to keep the original cupboards, but added glass to the doors. We also had my sister's fiance replace the putty-colored tile with gorgeous hardwood to add polish and warmth to the room.
